About Cell Phones for Soldiers

Cell Phones for Soldiers was founded in 2004 by brother and sister Robbie and Brittany Bergquist, ages 12 and 13 at the time. To date, they have provided more than 62 million minutes of free calling cards thanks to a national network of individual and corporate supporters donating phones and money. The program serves the 200,000+ U.S. troops deployed in Iraq and Afghanistan and the challenges they face in communicating with loved ones back home. Cell Phones For Soldiers collects old unused cell phones and sends them to recycling centers where recyclable materials are stripped and hazardous materials are responsibly discarded. There are more than 130 million used phones retired every year in the United States. Though each phone on its own may not pose much of an environmental risk, the cumulative impact is significant. Those 130 million phones contain more than 16 million pounds of hazardous waste and only a small percentage are recycled.
